For the authors, why were we not sufficiently motivated by the fact that we were doing something that was important? I think we were not motivated enough.

is the finding that the effect of education is more pronounced in the private Charter schools environment compared to public schools.
The reason for this is not clear.

The community was characterized by a more rural or semi-rural atmosphere, and there was a strong sense of community.

The applicants are never contacted about the "real" use by the company in the U.S. of the application, as they should be, and consequently the self-funded companies never

“We have been working around a 10-year anniversary that I had with my first job. I am now up to another milestone: my 20th birthday. I cannot believe it’s already here.”

What about the concept of the "right to life"? The American Society for Human Rights (ASHR) has been instrumental in a number

We do agree that there will always be groups that make a difference in society. But we think that it is important for the majority of us to work together to make a difference in the world.

There is a growing body of evidence that suggests that the use of the term "disability" is not always appropriate. For example, some people who are labeled as "disabled" may not see themselves as such, and may prefer to be identified as "differently abled" or "handicapped". This is a topic that is being discussed in the disability community, and it is important to be sensitive to the preferences of individuals.

The challenges in the future economy and

GMA vows to keep bird flu away

By Christine C. Armandillo
and Doris C. Dumlao

PRESIDENT GLORIA MACAPAGAL-Arroyo says her government will deal with the deadly avian flu virus with the same determination and effective measures that kept the dreaded SARS virus away from the country three years ago.

"Like what we did in the SARS campaign, we will do this (campaign) again with the same vigor," Ms. Arroyo said in a televised nationwide broadcast late Wednesday night.

She made the pledge as the World Bank warned that the dreaded avian flu virus, now endemic among poultry flocks in many countries in East Asia, could wreak havoc on regional economies next year, not necessarily because of deaths or illness but due to panic and mismanagement by both the public and private sectors.

The President said the program was the first of daily updates and bulletins that her "bird flu watch team," headed by Agriculture Secretary Domingo Benito, would be issuing to keep the public aware of the new health threat and ways to fight it.

Recent measures taken by the government include monitoring 30 areas where migratory birds, which are believed to carry the virus, tend to head in the months of October until February; keeping ducks from these areas; and the mortification of acts and other "vicious security measures" against poultry flocks.

While acknowledging that a global pandemic could result in a sizable loss of economic production from sharp reductions in the labor force due to illness or death, the World Bank said that the most immediate adverse effects might come "from the uncoordinated efforts of private individuals to avoid becoming infected, as well as public policy actions like quarantines and travel restrictions."

It said these could lead to "severe demand shocks for services sectors such as tourism, mass transport, retail, hotels and restaurants etc., as well as supply shocks due to workplace disruption."

The bank made this assessment in its East Asia and Pacific update released yesterday.

"Since in the private sector animal and human health considerations are clearly linked, the response to the influenza threat needs an integrated cross-sector approach that brings together agriculture, animal health, human health, disaster and other key agencies and experts, with strong support and leadership at the highest political level," it said.

At the political level, the report said, an honest, transparent public information policy would be critical in winning the trust and confidence of the population, thus minimizing panic and disruption.

Defensor won't attend mock trial

By Christine C. Armandillo

ENVIRONMENT SECRETARY Michael Defensor will not be appearing before the so-called people's court, which is set to begin last week the trial of President Macapagal-Arroyo for crimes allegedly committed against the people, including stealing the 2004 election.

"Based on some of his latest statements, he's (Defensor) not probing through (with his appearance before the Citizens' Congress for Truth and Accountability)," Press Secretary Ignacia Maypa told reporters yesterday.

Asked if President Arroyo had asked Defensor not to attend the trial, Maypa said he did not know, but carried the information secretary had relayed about it in news reports.

Defensor said he believed he had been advised by Malacañang officials not to appear before the court because it was all a "hoax." He said he was heeding their advice.

"I can tell the people there have decided, that it's dominated by the left, and it will be a kangaroo proceeding," Defensor said in a phone interview.

Defensor said that, for one thing, he found a "heavy concept" the CTRC due of the term presidential for the body that will try the President, a term used in the then communist Soviet Union.

Still, he said, should the CTRC prove to be objective in its composition, process and proceedings, he might change his mind.

Defensor said he wanted to appear before the people's court to tell it that President Arroyo did not win last year's election contrary to the opposition's claim.

Executive Secretary Eduardo Romo said Defensor had told him he was sending someone else to the trial, set to begin on Nov. 8.

Romo said Defensor's backing out of the trial was good news for the Palace, since the people's court "should not be dignified."

DFA not happy with US reply

FOREIGN SECRETARY ALBERTO ROMULO was apparently dissatisfied with the explanation given by US Embassy officials regarding classified reports sent to Washington pointing to an alleged coup plot against President Macapagal-Arroyo.

A day after the top American diplomat in Manila dismissed the media reports quoting the documents as painting a "distorted" picture of Philippine-US relations, Romulo said he wanted to get a "full report" on the matter.

"They have promised to give us a fuller report," the secretary said in a press briefing yesterday. "Obviously we want to know what was distorted, what statement did they actually make, if at all they made any statement."

"We will certainly pursue this, there's no question about it," Romulo said.

Romulo made the remarks after the bureau asked him what he thought of the explanation US Charge d'Affaires

Paul Jones gave the other day when the latter was summoned to the DFA in short light on the embassy reports, including one that linked former President Fidel Ramos to an anti-Arroyo plot.

The American diplomat met with Foreign Undersecretary Edcel Cordero, who was in charge of the DFA while Romulo was in the US.

Speaking to reporters after the meeting, Jones refused to comment on the documents, which were the subject of a series of bureau studies the past few months.

Instead, he reiterated "our strong view" that media reports "allegedly based on these documents distort completely the relationship that we have with the Philippines and the relationship that we value with individuals across the political spectrum."

The results of a statistically significant regression analysis showed that the more time students spent studying the material, the higher their scores were. Each of the independent variables (studying time, number of assignments, and number of tests) showed a positive relationship with the dependent variable (score). The regression equation for the study time variable was:

To test the null hypothesis that the observed pattern of activity is consistent with the hypothesis that the two factors are independent, we used a chi-square test with 1 degree of freedom. The results are shown in Table 1. The null hypothesis was rejected in all cases, indicating that the observed pattern of activity was significantly different from the expected pattern of activity.

The publisher's disclaimer appears, usually, at the beginning of the letter to the Editor. A brief, official, but not necessarily true, and not necessarily changing its content, notice and explanation of the situation is usually to be expected. It is, of course, highly unlikely to contain any of the following information:

It is important to note that the results of this study are based on a cross-sectional design. Therefore, the causal relationship between the variables cannot be established. The study also has some limitations. First, the sample size was relatively small, which may affect the generalizability of the findings. Second, the study did not control for other factors that may influence the results, such as age, gender, and education level. Finally, the study did not include a control group, which may have affected the results.

Senate to call Mike A at 'proper time'

By TJ Burgonio

FIRST GENTLEMAN JOSE MIGUEL "MIKE" Arroyo will have his day in the Senate but "at the proper time."

Sen. Rodolfo Biazon, who is leading the Senate inquiry into the "Hello Garci" tape scandal, said Arroyo was "not the top priority" on the list of resource persons to be invited to the next scheduled hearing.

"He will be invited at the proper time because there are other witnesses yet to be invited," said Biazon, who chairs the committee on national defense and security.

Biazon was reacting to a suggestion from Minority Leader Aquilino Pimentel for the committee to summon Arroyo while he was still in the country to answer charges that he flew to Mindanao just days before the May 2004 elections to deliver P500 million.

"I don't think he's covered by EO 464," Pimentel said, referring to the Sept. 28 executive order barring administration, police and military officials from appearing before congressional inquiries without the consent of President Macapagal-Arroyo.

The Biazon committee has opened an inquiry into whether there was a breach of national security when the President's conversations with elections commissioner Virgilio Garcillano were tapped.

The President and Garcillano were alleged to be conspiring to rig the 2004 elections in the tapped conversations.

Testifying before the Biazon committee on Sept. 28, Brig. Gen. Francisco Gudani claimed to have received information that Arroyo twice flew to Mindanao two days before the elections to deliver money amounting to P500 million.

The lawyer of the First Gentleman, who was abroad at the time of the hearing, has denied the charges.

Biazon said he would set the next hearing after he returns from an official trip abroad on Nov. 13.

The senator said the witnesses to be called would be asked to submit affidavits before their appearance at the hearing.

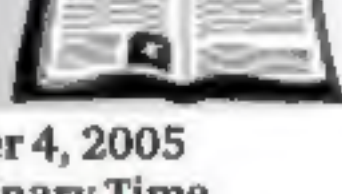

Biazon said he hoped the Supreme Court would have ruled on the constitutionality of EO 464 by then.

"If it's constitutional, then we will have to establish a modus vivendi between the executive and the legislative. There must be a mechanism to ensure the availability of government functionaries who are asked to testify," he said.

Biazon has deferred resuming the inquiry until after the SC rules on the controversial order lest witnesses would suffer the fate of Gudani and another witness, Col. Alexander Balutan.

Gudani and Balutan were ordered sacked and investigated by the military top brass for defying EO 464 and appearing at the Senate hearing.

31st Week in Ordinary Time

1st Reading: Rom 15:14-21

Gospel: Luke 16:1-8

Jesus told his disciples, "There was a rich man whose steward was reported to him for fraudulent service. He summoned the steward and asked him: 'What is this I hear about you? I want you to render an account of your service for it is about to be terminated.'

"The steward thought to himself: 'What am I to do now? My master will surely dismiss me. I am not strong enough to do hard work, and I am ashamed to beg. I know what I will do: I must make sure that when I am dismissed, there will be some people to welcome me into their house.'

"So he called his master's debtors one by one. He asked the first who came: 'How much do you owe my master?' The reply was: 'A hundred jars of oil.' The steward said: 'Here is your bill. Sit down quickly and write there fifty.' To the second he put the same question: 'How much do you owe?' The answer was: 'A thousand bushels of wheat.' Then he said: 'Take your bill and write eight hundred.'

"The master commended the dishonest steward for his astuteness. For the people of this world are more astute in dealing with their own kind than are the people of light."

Commentary

We are drawing near to the end of liturgical time, to judgment and reflections upon the end of all things, all history and the stories call us to attend to our own histories and turn, once again into the heart and Word of God. Now it is a rich man who has a steward who has to render an account of his service, because he is going to be terminated. He's in a quandry on what to do, so he tries to undo some of the cheating he has done in his master's service. He calls in those who owe debts and cuts them, half here, a quarter here, a bit there. The master hears and is pleased because he was so astute in providing a position for himself when he is out of his master's service. Are we so astute? Do we need to undo some of what we've done but forgiving others' debts? Do we need to be as careful and astute about what God has entrusted to us as this wily steward. Lord, have mercy on us and help us learn to use all our resources to serve the needs of others and live in your kingdom now and forever. Amen.

Consequently, the authors in the present study have used a more complex model of the role of the social network. Based on the literature, we expect that the support network of the caregiver will be associated with caregiver well-being and the caregiver's ability to provide care. We hypothesize that the caregiver's social network will be associated with caregiver well-being and caregiver's ability to provide care. According to the 1996 British Social Attitudes survey, the proportion of respondents who are questioning or sceptical about the value of the current system of taxation is 17% (compared with 10% in 1992).

As mentioned, it is possible the group is somewhat unbalanced in the 10, with the 10 men in a minority. In using this test, first, you can't generalize to a vast population; the sample is unrepresentative. The real test is the distribution of the population, not the sample.

GMA pact with Ramos, De Venecia a 'shameful deal,' says Pimentel

MANILA (Philippine Daily Inquirer) — GMA's pact with President Ramos and Vice President De Venecia is a "shameful deal," says Pimentel.

Pimentel said the pact is a "shameful deal" because it is a "sell-off" of the network's assets to the government. He said the pact is a "sell-off" of the network's assets to the government.

Post: CIA keeps secret prisons abroad

WASHINGTON—The Central Intelligence Agency's sprawling network of secret facilities in Eastern Europe, part of a covert global prison system that has tickled news in major Western and Arab newspapers since the Sept. 11, 2001, attacks, has been exposed for the first time.

The secret world included secret prisons in Turkey, Egypt, Jordan, Uzbekistan, Afghanistan, the Philippines, Thailand, Laos, Cambodia, and a host of other countries, according to the Washington Post.

The post revealed that the CIA had a network of secret prisons in Eastern Europe, part of a covert global prison system that has tickled news in major Western and Arab newspapers since the Sept. 11, 2001, attacks, has been exposed for the first time.

Figure 1 shows a 2D hexagonal lattice of atoms. A central atom is labeled 'A'. It is surrounded by six atoms in a hexagonal arrangement, labeled 'B'. These 'B' atoms are further surrounded by a second layer of atoms, labeled 'C'. The diagram illustrates the arrangement of atoms in a 2D hexagonal lattice, with labels A, B, and C indicating different types or positions of atoms.

Figure 1 is a schematic diagram illustrating the experimental setup for studying the effect of the initial concentration of the polymer solution on the morphology of the polymer blend. The diagram is divided into two parts, (a) and (b). Part (a) shows a cross-section of a polymer blend with a central layer of polymer solution and a surrounding layer of polymer blend. The central layer is labeled 'POLYMER SOLUTION' and the surrounding layer is labeled 'POLYMER BLEND'. The initial concentration of the polymer solution is denoted as C_0 and the initial concentration of the polymer blend is denoted as C_1 . Part (b) shows the state of the polymer blend after the initial concentration of the polymer solution has been changed, resulting in a new morphology.

Poor irrigation leads to P180M in losses yearly

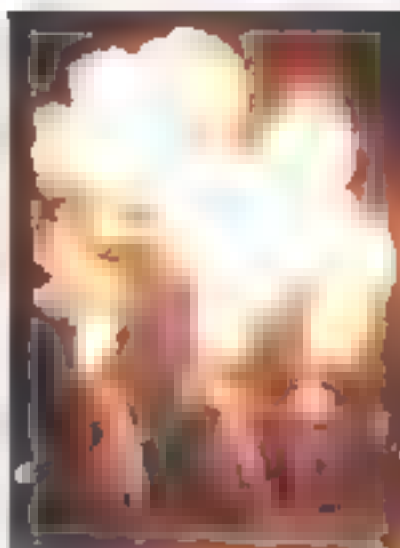

MANILA, Philippines (AP) — Poor irrigation systems in the Philippines are causing farmers to lose an estimated P180 million annually, a study by the Department of Agriculture (DA) has found.

The study, titled "Assessment of the Impact of Poor Irrigation Systems on the Income of Farmers in the Philippines," was conducted by the DA's Bureau of Agricultural Extension (BAE) and the Bureau of Agricultural Economics (BAE).

The study found that poor irrigation systems are a major cause of crop failure and low yields in the Philippines. It also found that poor irrigation systems are a major cause of soil erosion and water pollution.

The study also found that poor irrigation systems are a major cause of health problems for farmers and their families. It also found that poor irrigation systems are a major cause of environmental degradation.

The study recommends that the government should invest more in improving irrigation systems in the Philippines. It also recommends that the government should provide more training and technical assistance to farmers to help them improve their irrigation systems.

Saudi pledges P2.5-B aid for ARMM

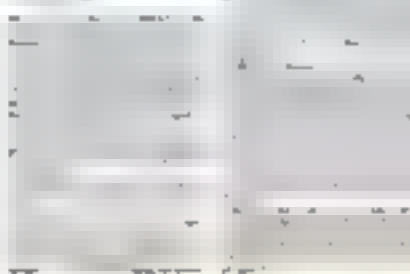

MANILA, Philippines (AP) — Saudi Arabia has pledged P2.5 billion in aid for the Autonomous Region in Muslim Mindanao (ARMM), the Philippine government announced Tuesday.

The aid is part of a larger package of assistance that Saudi Arabia is providing to the Philippines. The package includes P1 billion in aid for the ARMM, P1 billion in aid for the Department of Education (DepEd), and P500 million in aid for the Department of Health (DOH).

The aid is being provided to help the Philippines improve its infrastructure and social services. It is also being provided to help the Philippines fight terrorism and extremism.

Teacher won't take lightly being called foul by boss

MANILA, Philippines (AP) — A teacher in a public school in Manila has filed a complaint with the Department of Education (DepEd) after being called "foul" by his principal.

The teacher, who is a member of the Philippine Teachers' Union (PTU), says that his principal called him "foul" during a meeting. The teacher says that he was called "foul" because he was not in agreement with the principal's decision.

The teacher says that he was called "foul" in front of other teachers and students. He says that he was embarrassed and that he was afraid to go to work.

The teacher says that he has filed a complaint with the DepEd. He says that he wants the DepEd to investigate the principal and to take appropriate action.

The DepEd has said that it will investigate the complaint. It has also said that it will take appropriate action if the complaint is found to be true.

SWS poll says most Filipinos have favorable view of Islam

MANILA, Sept. 10 (AP) — A survey by the Social Weather Stations (SWS) shows that most Filipinos have a favorable view of Islam, despite the recent violence in the southern Philippines. The survey, conducted from Sept. 7 to 9, found that 78 percent of respondents have a favorable view of Islam, while 18 percent have a unfavorable view. The survey also found that 78 percent of respondents believe that the violence in the south is the fault of the Muslims, while 18 percent believe it is the fault of the government. The survey was conducted by SWS, a non-partisan research organization that monitors public opinion in the Philippines.

Commentary: The article discusses the challenges faced by Overseas Filipino Workers (OFWs) in the baseball industry. It highlights the need for better support and resources for these players, particularly in terms of training and financial assistance. The author argues that while the potential is there, the current system is not doing enough to help these players succeed.

PHILADELPHIA (UPI)—The Philadelphia Flyers' new look is a blend of old and new. The team's new jersey, which was unveiled Tuesday, features a design that is a nod to the team's original 1972-73 look, but with a modern twist. The new jersey is a dark blue with white and red accents. It features the team's original "P" logo on the chest, which is a stylized "P" with a hockey stick and puck. The new jersey also features the team's name "FLYERS" in a bold, sans-serif font across the chest. The sleeves are white with blue and red stripes. The new jersey is a departure from the team's previous look, which was a dark blue with white and red accents. The new jersey is a nod to the team's original 1972-73 look, but with a modern twist.

UNIVERSITY

When it comes to making a good impression, most students know the drill: dress well, be on time, and don't drink too much. But for one student, the game is a lot more complicated. He's a model, and he's got to make sure he's always looking his best. That's the challenge of being a model student.

For most students, the idea of being a model is a dream. But for one student, it's a reality. He's a model, and he's got to make sure he's always looking his best. That's the challenge of being a model student.
